

INCA'S STORY

Since 2008, the team at Inca Networks has been reinventing video delivery by providing carrier class products that can be scaled and customized to fix any issue. Co-founders Jeff Campbell and Mike Bradley created Inca with the goal to help operators match the industry's fast changing standards and technologies, and introduce innovative products that will enable operators in being both competitive and profitable.

We are Main Street, not Wall Street. Our focus is always on our customers.

In 2015, Inca joined Germany's WISI Group, one of the worldwide pioneers of receiving and distributing technology for over 90 years. Together, Inca and WISI are dedicated to providing innovative products that will help any video distributor minimize operating costs while maximizing the scale and efficiency at every point in the network.

Inca is focussed on researching and engineering the most innovative and efficient products to keep video operators working smoothly today, while providing the roadmap to next-generation video delivery.

"Everything that the Inca support team has done, has been well above and beyond, what Inca needs to do. They've helped us with many issues that weren't even their problem. Without Inca, I don't think that we would be here today."

- Chris Bogner, Carr Communications

WE ARE GLOBAL

Since the founding in 1926 by Wilhelm Sihh Jr., WISI Communications has been among the global pioneers of reception and distribution technology. The WISI Group has grown rapidly and we have extended our product line accordingly. With 11 offices around the world, we have a main business presence in 8 different countries.

WE ARE EXPERIENCED

Inca has built intelligence and visibility into every product we make. The Inca Intelligent Video Delivery Platform ensures operators can transform beyond the traditional broadcast model to a personalized architecture, giving them a competitive edge and delivering new revenues.

A PARTNER TO COUNT ON

One of our foremost principles is to be a permanent and reliable company for customers, partners, and employees. We have been around for a long time and intend to stay around, which is why we invest time and effort in areas such as digital video conditioning and fibreglass technology all the way to the subscriber.
